COOLIDGE WILL URGE RETAINING BUDGET SYSTEM

President Stands Squarely Behind Tax Reduction Plan.

Washington, Nov. 28.—A sweeping reduction in taxation and further economies through the budget system are outstanding recommendations in President Coolidge's first message to congress, it was learned from an official source. The message was completed today and sent to the public printer. It will be delivered to congress next Wednesday.

In the important document, so vital to his political fate, the executive urges upon congress, in addition to lower taxes, as his ideas, that: Consolidation of railways be voluntary instead of compulsory; immigration be restricted to 2 per cent on the basis of the census of 1890, instead of 3 per cent on the 1910 census; a declaration that the United States will help in European affairs only where it can do so in its own way and without entanglements or alliances, and an aggressive policy in the government operation of a merchant marine until such a time as the ships may be turned over to private operators without loss to the people.

The president will stand squarely behind Secretary of the Treasury Mellon in his proposal to cut the taxes by $300,000,000, the surplus now reposing in the treasury. He will make this measure of relief the principal administration measure and urge his party to carry it through as expeditiously as possible.

Directly linked with this he will command the budget and tell congress that its discontinuance would prove a national calamity. He says that the budget has made it possible for the government to reach the point where taxes can be reduced. The government must continue to practice the strictest economy, he will point out, and it is only through these orderly workings of the budget system that this can be done.

In announcing his new railroad policy he will make his first important deviation from the policies of the late President Harding, who believed that a solution of the railroad problem could be brought about only by consolidating competing lines and removing high and unnecessary costs, as well as improving the transportation system. President Harding made this one of the big issues on his fateful speaking tour of the west.

Railroad Consolidation.

President Harding and Senator Cummins had agreed that the railroads should be allowed a period of seven years to voluntarily work out mergers under the approval of the interstate commerce commission. Failing in this, at the end of the period agreed upon, the railroads would be compelled to consolidate as directed by the interstate commerce commission. President Coolidge is said to be holding that it would prove unfair to the railroads to pass legislation of this kind and looking so many years into the future.

With this exception the president will approve such recommendations as have been submitted to him by Senator Cummins. In particular he will urge some consideration be given to the question of equality of freight rates, so that some relief may be given to farmers and to the purchasing public. The reduction of freight rates, he contends, is a matter that would follow as a first consequence of the reduction of taxation and the relief from an amazing sum paid by railroads for this item alone.

Another reason why rates may be reduced, it is pointed out, is that because of tax railroads are compelled to secure money for developments, over and above taxes, through income. With high surtaxes reduced, the president will explain, billions now invested in tax-exempt securities will be placed at the disposal of railroads.

In immigration he will follow the recommendations of Representative Johnson of Washington, chairman of the house immigration committee. He calls for a quota based on 2 per cent of the foreign population in the census of 1890, instead of 3 per cent based on the census of 1910. The reduction in the number of immigrants to be admitted will be comparatively small, estimated at 10,000 for the year, but it will shift the tide from what is considered an undesirable element to one more readily Americanized.

That portion of the president's message dealing with the shipping situation is much the same as that enunciated by President Harding and urges guarantees that the American flag shall remain on the high seas.

TO CONFER WITH GOVERNOR

Columbus, Nov. 28.—Attorney General Crabb stated he intended to confer with Governor Donahay before taking further action with relation to charges of graft and corruption in the Canton city government. Crabb visited Canton Monday and conferred with County Prosecutor McClintock and other Canton residents to obtain firsthand information.

MAN NOT MURDERED BUT VICTIM OF ACCIDENT RULES CORONER

Zanesville, Nov. 28.—Roy E. Murphy, 32, whose body was found outside the Elliott school last night was not murdered as at first suspected, but was the victim of an accidentally self-inflicted wound, according to Coroner L. F. Grimes and Sheriff Bradford.

who returned this morning from the scene of the accident.

It was at first reported that Murphy was stabbed to death in a fight but it developed that he fatally cut himself in the abdomen when the blade of a large hunting knife slipped through a box which he was opening at the school house supper and penetrated the lower side of his abdomen, severing an artery.

Murphy did not tell anyone of the accident and went outside the school house, probably to investigate the wound. He bled to death and his body was found in a few minutes.

Murphy's wife was inside the school building mingling with the crowd there when notified of the fatal accident to her husband.

CRABBE DECLARIES MONEY IS LOST

Chicago, Nov. 28.—Mrs. Katherine Malm, 19, sought by police as an accomplice in the murder of Edward Lehman today will be booked by police on a charge of murder, according to detectives, who questioned her.

Mother love for her two-year-old daughter proved more powerful than fear of hanging drove her to surrender after she had eluded police seeking her since her husband's confession.

The "wolf girl" was calm when she walked into the Hudson avenue station and told police who she was. She had come from Indianapolis in hope of seeing her baby, who has been closely watched since search for the girl started.

Otto Malm, her husband, lifted the weight of murder charges from Walter Brockelman, and "Blonde Kitty" Beck when he admitted that he and his wife were the pair who shot down Edward Lehman, "watchman," when they were surprised robbing the Dayton Knitting Company's plant early November 4.

TWO PARDONED

Columbus, Nov. 28.—Governor Donahay pardoned Antonio Montagno of Marion, serving life sentence for second degree murder, and commuted the sentence of Henry C. Wilcox, Licking county, serving two to 20 years for criminal assault.

"We believe an innocent man was caught in the web of fate," the clemency board wrote Donahay, in recommending Montagno's pardon. Release of Wilcox was likewise recommended by the board and by trial judge and prosecutor.

TO CLOSE AT NOON

The offices of The Evening Gazette and The Morning Republican will be closed at noon Thursday, Thanksgiving Day, in order to allow employees to observe the occasion. The Gazette will be published at noon.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 28.—One fireman was injured, perhaps fatally, another dangerously gashed, a watchman burned and one person carried to safety in a river front fire between Woodward avenue, and Bates street early today.

Damage was estimated at $300,000.

The Detroit and Windsor Ferry Company docks, the United States customs offices, the United States immigration offices and the Detroit and Windsor Ferry Company offices were completely destroyed and the H. Finsler Furniture Company warehouse gutted.

The fire is believed to have started from an overheated stove.

BERLIN RIOTS ORDERED FROM RUSS CAPITAL

German Nation Is Still Without Cabinet—Seek Leader

Cologne, Nov. 28.—Events are moving rapidly towards an autonomous Rhineland within the German Reich, according to a statement made to International News Service today by Anton Erkelenz a prominent trade unionist, who is taking an active part in the secessionist movement.

Berlin, Nov. 28.—Chancellor-Designate Stegerwald's chances of forming a new cabinet were wrecked this afternoon by the Nationalists who are insisting upon a new policy towards France while the Democrats are insisting that the policy of former Chancellor Stresemann be continued in effect.

Berlin, Nov. 28.—Four policemen and one civilian were seriously wounded here today in riots during a demonstration by German Communists. It is understood the order to conduct the demonstration came direct from Moscow.

Seven ringleaders were arrested, including agitators who were reported to have been sent here from Russia. Germany is still without a cabinet. President Ebert made overtures to Albert Stegerwald, a member of the Centrist (Catholic) Party but he had not formally accepted up to the time this cablegram was filed.

If Herr Stegerwald accepts the chancellorship he will attempt to form a bourgeois cabinet, including members of the German People's Party and the Nationalists.

Hugo Stinnes is one of the leaders of the German People's Party. Communists have been taking advantage of the unrest and general tension arising from the political situation. Moscow is becoming more and more active in German affairs and a number of Russian agents have been sent into Germany to agitate dis-sorders.

The Soviet agents have been especially active in the Ruhr where many persons were wounded in outbreaks during the past 48 hours.

It was regarded this afternoon as virtually certain that Stegerwald would be able to form some sort of ministry and that former Chancellor Stresemann probably would take over the post of general secretary.

Berlin, Nov. 28.—Overwhelmed by a storm of opposition, both from home and abroad, Dr. Heinrich F. Albert gave up his chancellorship and returned his appointment to President Ebert. His attempt to form a super-party government which would be independent of the eternal party squabbles in the Reichstag collapsed and made a confused situation more confused.

Albert's retirement is a great victory for the Reichstag, which almost unanimously rejected Albert personally and resented the attempt of the president to ignore it in the formation of the new government.

By the same token it was a great defeat for Ebert, whose position heretofore, that of the one authority in Germany still respected, is now badly shaken. The nationalists accuse him of acting more as a socialist than as president and demand that he quit. But while the Reichstag is able to overthrow one cabinet and prevent the formation of another, it is unable to produce a cabinet of its own.

President Ebert is expected to send an ultimatum to the Reichstag to find its own chancellor or be dissolved. He would then either keep Stresemann or name his own man.

KIDNAPED AND ROBBED

Cleveland, Nov. 28.—Edward Butler, sales manager of a local stove company, and Frank Dangler, purchasing agent and son of the head of the company, were kidnaped and robbed of an automobile and several thousand dollars' worth of jewelry and money by three automobile bandits here.

PLANS VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN

Columbus, Nov. 28.—More prosecutions under the Crabb act, which makes conviction of a third violation of the prohibition laws punishable by a penitentiary term, are being planned by State Prohibition Commissioner B. F. McDonald. He plans to carry out this idea through co-operation between state, city and county agents keeping records of the various arrests.

Company docks, the United States customs offices, the United States immigration offices and the Detroit and Windsor Ferry Company offices were completely destroyed and the H. Finsler Furniture Company warehouse gutted.

The fire is believed to have started from an overheated stove.

DIAMOND HELD IN BIG ROBBERY

MORRIS DIAMOND

New York, Nov. 28.—Complete confessions were made today by Morris and Joseph Diamond, brothers charged with homicide and robbery in the $43,000 holdup and murder of two bank messengers in Brooklyn, Nov. 14.

District Attorney Charles Dodd of Brooklyn, announced the brothers had denied firing the shots that killed the two messengers and named three gunmen as the actual killers.

Police have broadcast descriptions of the three named by the Diamonds to police throughout the country.

Swooping down today on a flat in the Bronx, which police say was the hatching place of the $43,000 holdup, detectives arrested six men.

This brought the total haul of the police dragnet to nine.

OPEN WARFARE BETWEEN 'GUARD' AND PROGRESIVES CONTINUES

Washington, Nov. 28.—While the Democrats are sitting tight and watching with keen enjoyment the troubles the Republicans are having in trying to organize the sixty-eighth Congress, the open warfare between "Regulars" and "Progressives" continued today on both sides of the Capitol.

Peace conferences on both sides of the Capitol are the order of the day.

The Senate progressives were particularly hostile today because they charged administration leaders had endorsed Cummins for both jobs merely to keep Senator LaFollette, Republican of Wisconsin, out of the chairmanship of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

On the House side a larger and more militant group headed by Representative John M. Nelson, Republicans were making overtures to Democratic leaders in the hope of arranging a coalition with the minority party to defeat the administration program. By these negotiations the insurgents were sounding out Democrats on a proposal for joining forces to elect LaFollette to the chairmanship of the Interstate Commerce Committee, in exchange for progressive support for Senator Key Pittman, Democrat of Nevada, for the Senate presidency. This proposal was given serious consideration by the Democrats at an informal conference called by Senator Joe Robinson, Democrat of Arkansas, minority leader.

The white house announced that it was the president's intention to appear before the two houses in joint session Wednesday and read his message. Fears were expressed by leaders in both houses that organization will not be effected in time to permit him to do this.

The Senate situation arising out of the contest for the presidency yesterday was thought to have been all nicely ironed out Monday by the announcement of Senator Cummins that he would give up either his ambition to be the presiding officer and retain chairmanship of the Interstate Commerce Committee, or would give up the chairmanship to Senator LaFollette, next in line and accept the presidency pro tem.

Something has happened to Cummins, however, to cause him to change his mind. Old guard leaders who called on him today were informed that he intends to hold onto both positions. This may lead to a deadlock in the Senate organization if LaFollette's supporters make an effort to elect him chairman of the committee in place of Cummins, who will be undoubtedly the choice of the Republican caucus.

Old guard plans for House organization have been completely upset by the Nelson group of "progressives," who insist they will block all attempts to re-elect Gillett speaker until they are given satisfactory guarantees respecting reforms in the House rules and in committee assignments.

Nelson asserted after a conference of his executive committee that he has sixteen votes absolutely pledged to stand together until the demands are acceded to. Sixteen votes could block Gillett's election, because the present Republican membership, counting Nelson's group, is 225. The Democrats have 207 and there are three independents. Now if sixteen leave the Republican ranks, the Republicans will be without a majority.

LAUNCH MOVEMENT

Washington, Nov. 28.—A nationwide movement of world war veterans, regardless of affiliations with veterans organizations, to support Senator Hiram Johnson of California for the presidency, was launched here when the "Veterans' Hi Johnson club" was organized. Resolutions giving unqualified approval of the principles, policies and endeavors of Senator Johnson, were adopted by the newly formed organization, which plans an extensive nation-wide publicity campaign in its support of the senator from California.

JAPANESE NAVY PLANS SPEEDY RETURN TO ITS PRE-EARTHQUAKE STATUS; NOT SERIOUSLY INJURED

Admiral Declares Damage Done to Fleet Comparatively Small—Praises Attitude of U. S. in Time of Disaster.

Tokio, Nov. 28.—The Japanese navy, while suffering with all other departments of the Japanese government, plans to make a speedy return to its pre-earthquake status. While the work on the auxiliary shipping, construction of submarine and aircraft must be closed down as a result of the September disaster and the resultant need for economy in all departments, the actual strength of the Japanese navy has not been dangerously injured by the recent events.

This was the declaration today of Admiral Takeshi Takarabe, Takarabe, minister of the navy, who told something of the damage done Yokosuka, Japan's great naval base in an interview today with International News Service.

Listing the damage done at Yokosuka and other navy places, Admiral Takarabe pointed out that the damage done the floating power, after all the great power of any navy, has been small. He said:

"As we have notified the Washington treaty powers, the Amagi, an ex-battle cruiser, which the treaty powers agreed might be transformed into an airplane carrier, was so badly damaged in the quake that it has been decided to abandon that ship, and to use for this purpose instead, the battleship Kaga, which, according to the Washington treaties, was to have been scrapped. This ship, with the Naka, a light cruiser, which was practically completed at Yokohama, and was all but destroyed in the fire which swept the docks there, represent the greatest damage done the floating power."

CHILD SUCCUMBS TO INJURIES RECEIVED WHEN HIT BY CAR

Dayton, Nov. 28.—Elenora Seaman, 7, daughter of Mrs. Mattie Seaman, Xenia pike, near the Dayton city limits, died in Miami Valley Hospital last night from injuries sustained when she was struck by an automobile driven by Leslie C. Marshall, 22, of Witnesses say the child ran in front of Marshall's car, which was going west on the pike. Marshall said he was blinded also by the headlights of another machine. The child was on her way to school to take part in a Thanksgiving program.

Oren Herren, Dayton, R. R. 8, suffered injuries which may cause his death when two automobiles collided at Phillips and Wayne Avenues last night. The cars were driven by Eugene C. Hartline, R. R. 8 and John Davids, Edison Avenue, Belmont. Herren was riding with Hartline and received a fractured leg, cuts and bruises and possibly internal injuries. Earl Shahan, Dayton and Xenia pike, also with Hartline was cut about the face.

James Lowry, colored, Dayton, suffered a fractured leg and possible internal injuries when he was struck by a automobile drive by Doris Harlan, Dayton, on Thanksgiving day.

JOHNSON ANNOUNCES STAND ON ISSUES

Chicago, Nov. 28.—Denunciation of Secretary of State Hughes' reparations proposal was the outstanding feature of an address by Senator Hiram Johnson here. The California senator, who had only a few days ago announced his candidacy for the presidency, spoke at a banquet of the Cook County Real Estate board. Senator Johnson gave approval of the soldiers' bonus, demanded an immediate tax reduction, relief of the farmers through co-operative marketing and for re-enactment of the child labor law and minimum wage law, which had been held invalid by the supreme

PATRIOTIC PROGRAM GIVEN BY D. A. R. AT HIGH SCHOOL TUESDAY; GIVE FLAG HISTORY

One of the most impressive services held in the new Central High School auditorium since its opening, was held under the auspices of the Catherine Greene Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, Tuesday afternoon.

Members of the society, and the student body and faculty of the Senior and Junior High Schools witnessed the presentation of a facsimile of the Mayflower compact, an American flag to the High School on behalf of the society, and an interesting flag display, by visiting dignitaries.

Miss Sarah Bell Williams, regent of Catherine Greene Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, presided over the program, which opened by the singing of "America" by the assemblage.

The Rev. A. L. Reynolds, of this city, delivered the opening prayer, and pronounced the benediction.

Miss Williams introduced Miss Emma King, D. A. R. member, and only member of the Ohio Society of Mayflower Descendants in Greene County, who in an interesting manner presented two facsimiles of the Mayflower compact, signed by the Puritan forefathers in the cabin of the Mayflower on its maiden voyage to the New World, one of which will be presented to Central High School, and the other to East High School. Mr. Waltz will present the latter copy, on behalf of the Society of Mayflower Descendants, Wednesday.

Miss King gave a resume of the perils of the Pilgrims, and described the signing of the Mayflower compact by the 41 voyagers, in 1620, in the Mayflower cabin. The wording of the compact was read by Miss King, before her presentation, the framed document.

Harper C. Pendry, principal of Central High School accepted the gift from Miss King, and in his response declared that "Just so long as a nation reveres the memory of its founders, and their fortitudes so modern dangers will be without effect." He expressed the gratitude of the schools in receiving the rare gift, and said that one of the aims of the High Schools was to revere the memory of the founders of early Americans. He praised the D. A. R. and Mayflower Descendent Societies for their work in holding to the true aims of the first Americans.

Mrs. Minor W. Monroe, chairman of the D. A. R. flag committee, presented to the pupils of the Central Senior and Junior High Schools, a handsome American flag. She congratulated the school on its present-day opportunities, and said that the schools of today are laying the foundation for the country's future greatness. "The American flag signifies more to the world than any other standard," she said, "and shows that aim of America, to give individual liberty."

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

When Back Hurts Flush You Kidneys as You Clean Your Bowels.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble. By all means have your physician examine your kidneys at least twice a year.

The flag was accepted by David Doggett, president of the Senior Class of Central High School, who in his response called attention to the fact that the Daughters of the American Revolution held the standard of ideal Americanism. He declared that Betsy Ross, who made the first adopted American flag, was a "daughter of the American Revolution," and that while history has changed the contour of the flag, it has not changed the principles it stands for. He expressed the sentiment of the flag, by reciting Wilbur D. Nesbit's poem, "Your Flag and My Flag." The same poem, set to music was sung by Mrs. William H. McGervey, of the D. A. R., following.

Mrs. Monroe after displaying the Ohio State flag, introduced William R. Sanders, of Cincinnati, president of the Ohio Sons of the American Revolution, and governor-general of the Society of Colonial Wars, who gave "The Evolution of the Flag." Mr. Sanders was assisted by Jackson W. Sparrow, general registrar of the society.

The Sons of the American Revolution possess a complete set of flags, from that brought over on the Mayflower, to the present emblem, which were shown by Mr. Sanders in his review. The American flag is older than that of many countries, he said. He spoke of the national emblems since the time of the old religious banners and the Crusades.

"The American flag has always been the flag of the people," Mr. Sanders said. "The flag stands for the country's ideals, as the cross stands for Christianity."

He was assisted in displaying various flags, by ten High School girls, who carried the banners on the stage. He began with the first flag of England's history, bearing the Cross of St. George. The combination of the Cross of St. George and that of St. Andrew, in 1603 was shown. The speaker told of the dissolution of the union of England and Scotland, and how in 1607 England, Scotland and Wales united, under what was known as "Cromwell's flag" bearing the two crosses in the quarter, in a red field. The action of the colonies in 1775, to show their distinction from the mother country, was illustrated by the pine tree flag, with the green tree in the white quarter, with a red field. The Massachusetts colony adopted the green tree in the white field.

The singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" closed the ceremonies.

Seated on the platform during the programs were Mrs. William Magee Wilson, vice president general of the National Society of Daughters of the American Revolution, and former regent; Miss Sarah Bell Williams, regent of Catherine Greene Chapter; Mrs. Minor W. Monroe, chairman of the D. A. R. flag committee; Miss Emma King, of the D. A. R. and Ohio Society of Mayflower Descendents; C. A. Waltz, superintendent of the Xenia Public Schools; Harper C. Pendry, principal of Central High School, the Rev. A. L. Reynolds, Miss Fannie K.

Haynes, of the High School faculty, and David Doggett, president of the Senior Class.

Mrs. William R. Sanders, accompanied her husband, and Mr. Sparrow, to the meeting, and was a guest of the D. A. R. society. Mrs. J. B. Foraker, widow of the former Ohio governor, and head of the George Washington Memorial, who was to be a guest at the ceremonies, was unable to be present, but was represented by her daughter Mrs. Matthews, of Cincinnati, who with Mrs. Sanders, was entertained at luncheon by the D. A. R. members at the First Reformed Church.

A REGULAR PUSHCART FELLOW ELECTED PRESIDENT OF CHINA.

Tsao Kun, born a coolie in Tientsin, China, where he grew to the normal position of his class, that of pushcart man, has been elected president of China. For an American rail splitter to become President of the United States is not astonishing, but for a coolie to become president of China may give us food for thought. For a nation which has been socially stratified and ossified for countless centuries, the break-up of such social organization must be a seismic disturbance of no less potential importance than the physical earthquake which has shaken Japan. It may mean unlimited things for China. It speaks more highly for the capabilities of Tsao Kun than could any rise from obscurity to greatness for a free American. This coolie president has not only risen above his 400,000,000 fellows, but has risen against obstacles such as few other races have known.

AUSTRIA HELPS.

A year ago Austria was in the bread line with the begging bowl. Mothers by the thousands led their gaunt, emaciated children to the kitchens established by American charity, there to get for them food they sorely needed for themselves.

Austria, by virtue of good faith was able to secure a loan, and there has been financial rehabilitation, not complete but considerable. The downfall of the crown to the abyss into which the ruble and the mark have plunged was stayed.

It might be supposed that out of the stress of economic and social anguish Austria's first gestures would be wholly to benefit herself. But the good-will of the world, which has differentiated between the attitude of Berlin and that of Vienna, noted with approval a manifestation of sympathy which from the dire plight of Austria's capital could not have been anticipated.

The Austrians, with the grateful sanction of the Prussian Government, are running the suitable parts of the ex-Kaiser's palace in Berlin as a soup kitchen for the relief of the destitute. The Viennese may say with the Queen of Carthage: "Not ignorant of misery, we know how to succor the afflicted." Because of the terrible ordeal through which they passed, they could understand the want and woe in the German capital. Austria's gift from her own crucial necessity should give the Germans new resolution to grapple manfully with the exigent conditions that are the retribution for Germany's own acts in the four terrible years.

THE TYPEWRITING AGE.

The use of the typewriter is now so universal that it is surprising to learn that the first satisfactory invention of the machine was made only fifty years ago. In this invention Christopher Latham Sholes did more than make two blades of grass grow where only one grew before. Of the vast utility of the typewriter in business offices, and of the associate invention, the linotype, in newspaper offices, nothing need be said, the fact being too obvious and generally known to require comment. The only question is whether the typewriter has been a real help to journalists and authors apart from the mere matter of increased speed and greater legibility. Some observers declare that it has resulted not only in an inferior literary style in the case of the average author, but is responsible for a deluge of written and printed words which the public might otherwise have been spared.

One critic even goes so far as to salute the inventor of the typewriter as the "father of modern literature." Productions of inferior literary quality would seem to be inevitable if it is true that authors generally now dictate to stenographers or compose on the typewriter. But is this really true of the most careful writers and perfected stylists who are more interested in achievement than in rapid production? Do these not now, as formerly, write first with a pencil or pen and only after correction and polishing make or have made clean typewritten copies? The conclusion in this matter would seem to depend on certainty as to the facts. Undoubtedly there is a deluge of inferior writing, but there is also excellent and carefully studied work in the matter of style.

"CAN WE AFFORD A TURKEY THIS YEAR?"

1903--Twenty Years Ago--1923

SEELEY, FAMOUS IN THE SPECI-

ALTY, CALLED TO DAYTON
F. H. Seeley, of Chicago and Philadelphia, the noted truss expert, will personally be at the Miami Hotel, and will remain in Dayton Tuesday only, Nov. 27. Mr. Seeley says: "The Spermatic Shield will not only retain any case or rupture perfectly, but contracts the opening in 10 days on the average case. Being a vast advancement over all former methods—exemplifying instantaneous effects immediately appreciable and notwithstanding any strain or position no matter the size or location. Large or difficult cases, or Incisional ruptures (following operations) specially solicited. This instrument received the only award in England and in Spain, producing results without surgery, injections, medical treatments or prescriptions. Warning—All cases should be cautioned against the use of any elastic or web truss with understraps, as same rest where the lump is and not where the opening is, producing complications necessitating surgical operations. Mr. Seeley has documents from the United States Government, Washington, D. C., for inspection. He will be glad to demonstrate without charge or fit if desired. ### NERVES

What would we do without our nerves? And what are we to do with them?

How tired they make us at times. And yet at other times we are thrilled with the power of their electric force.

It is easy to lay blame on nerves.

Nothing in nature quite equals the marvelously organized nervous system. Like a delicately woven piece of lacework is this nerve organization of ours. You can injure or disturb a single inch of the body without getting into trouble with this perfectly put together nervous system.

Controlled as it is from the seat of the mind, it will not stand abuse.

And when it is disturbed we get sleepless, cross, unfair, and are somebody else than ourselves.

Dr. Thomas Hyslop of England says that best possible sleep-producing agent which his practice has revealed, is prayer. He says that it will do more than anything else to pacify the mind and calm the nerves.

It is not so much praying to God, but to our better natures, our highest sense of right, and seeking adjustment and solace through the unloading of our fears upon a higher power than our own.

William James says that "One part of our mind dams up—ever dams up—the other parts."

When you relax and hand your burdens to some stronger agent, you relieve the tension that bound you and avail yourself of the joy of free expression.

If you would have calm nerves, get a calm mind.

INCREASE IN FEES OF TRUCK LICENSES EFFECTIVE JAN 1

Increase in the fees for motor truck registration and licenses as provided in a new law which went into effect July 27, 1923, is shown in the registration forms for vehicles for 1924 received by Elbert L. Babb, of the Babb hardware store, Xenia, registrar.

A sliding scale which raises in fees with the weight of the truck provides for practically a 100 per cent increase in the case of licenses for trucks the forms show. Trucks not over 25 horse power will be charged a flat rate of $8 and a weight fee of 20 cents a hundred gross, including vehicle and load; trucks over 25 horse power and not over 30 horsepower, will pay a flat rate of $12 and a weight fee of 30 cents a hundred gross, vehicle and load; trucks with horsepower over 30 will be charged a flat rate of $20 with a weight fee of 80 cents a hundred gross, vehicle and load.

Trailers of 2,000 capacity and under will pay 20 cents per hundred pounds on the weight of the vehicle and estimated load, while trailers of more than one ton capacity will be charged a fee of 50 cents for each hundred pounds of gross weight. Automobiles which may be converted into trucks will be charged for as if they were trucks. In case of a dispute as to the weight of an automobile, the owner must have it weighed and present a receipt from the weigher with the application for license.

The fees for various classes of passenger cars are not increased under the new law. The use of 1923 license plates must continue to the end of the year, and 1924 plates will not be permitted to be used until January 1. No extension of time will be granted, however, for obtaining 1924 plates and all auto owners must have the tags by the first of the year.

The law requiring that the application for license forms must be made out in triplicate this year, will necessitate extra book work, and has resulted in Secretary of State Thad H. Brown authorizing an increased fee for the service, but it will also enable local registrars to keep much better records. Two of the forms kept in triplicate will be forwarded at once to the Secretary of State and the other will be kept by the Registrar until April 1, 1925, being reserved on file. Of the two sent to the Secretary of State, one will be immediately return-

The Boardwalk—with its great and gorgeous hotels—and shops—and places of amusement—is always the center of interest. There is nothing like it in all the world.

On its broad expanse—by day and by night—is an unending procession of seekers after pleasure and refreshment who have been fascinated by its distinctive character and have learned that here as nowhere else in America is to be found a veritable re-creation.

ADDRESSES AND NAMING OF COMMITTEES FEATURE CLOSING B. & L. MEETING HERE

Appointment of members of committees from the second district of the Ohio Building Association League to see their congressmen in the interests of proper income tax legislation at the close of the final address by James A. Devine, Columbus, secretary of the state association, brought to a close the all-day meeting of the second district of the Association here Tuesday the first ever held in Greene County.

Members during the afternoon session listened to addresses by Congressman Roy G. Fitzgerald of the Third Ohio District, Dayton, on the value of co-operation, to L. T. Palmer, Middleton, ex-president of the Ohio Real Estate Board on "Present Day Appraisements," E. M. Baugher, Newark, vice-president of the Ohio Building Association League on "the value of advertising" and to Mr. Devine on the income tax question.

Speaking on "The Duties of a Building and Loan Attorney," Congressman Fitzgerald said the building and loan savings banks do more to promote stability and the basis of big and little business, than anything else. He referred to the march of progress in the United States, and declared that development is largely due to the "genius of people in the community. He referred to the currency standard of the United States in comparison with the currency conditions in foreign countries, reviewing the history of money in this country.

"We don't appreciate the stability of the United States," he said, "which is based on honesty and integrity. The moral degradation of Europe is frightful because it has destroyed every incentive to save or be thrifty. If you were earning money in one of those countries, would you put it in a savings bank? People who have put in savings banks in those countries, the equivalent of a year's work, have had returned to them less than the price of a pair of shoe strings. There is no preaching or precept so powerful as the activities of the building and loan associations in building up homes and stability in our government." Urging co-operation, he said, "you can't have perfect personal liberty without anarchy and you can't live in anarchy until we are all perfect in morals. So long as we are imperfect we have to stick together. The essential part of our progress and civilization is that we do know enough to co-operate. Be always alert to the attacks that are made. Sometimes we do not succeed because we are apathetic and do not get together and combat these things."

L. T. Palmer, speaking on appraisements, said "there is always present in any real estate appraisal reasonable and just grounds for difference in opinion. Every appraisal represents in itself something of a separate problem. The trend of the times is a reckless willingness to assume any obligation that may be advanced. Our watch word should be—steady."

Secretary John Waitman read a letter from Tom L. Pogue, Cincinnati, past president of the state association, expressing his regret at being unable to attend the meeting. E. M. Baugher, Newark, vice-president of the Ohio Building Association League told the delegates that two years ago only five per cent of the associations in the league advertised and that now more than 80 per cent are taking advantage of this means to greater business.

He told members of the success of his institution with the Christmas Money Clubs, which he said were a form of advertising, as they convinced people how easy it is to save and reached the class of people who were not saving any part of their earnings, with the appeal that they could thus save to spend—at Christmas time.

"Preaching in advertising is the greatest mistake you can possibly make, because it has no appeal," said Mr. Baugher. He told the association members that they had to study their problems and use their publicity in the way believed necessary to reach the people not saving. There is a need for teaching thrift," he said. "We are using paid newspaper space, and we believe in it as one of important activities of our publicity department. One of the things accomplished by the publicity department of the state league, has been to increase the number of associations using newspaper space. Two years ago only five per cent were advertising and now more than 80 per cent use newspaper space. We believe we are getting good results from the newspaper space we are using. Study your opportunities for usefulness in your own community."

L. P. McCullough, an official of the Buckeye State Building Association, Columbus, although not on the program, delivered an impromptu talk in which he urged co-operation with the state organization. "We are to win in this fight we are to have on the internal revenue problem that change or modification will be brought about through the fight the state organization is putting up. Do not believe the building and loan associations are doing all we can or should do. It is expected of us to take care of the

James A. Devine told the delegates of the work the state league is carrying through the group meetings over the state urged more active interest and co-operation. He said what could be accomplished in Congress on the income tax problem would have to be done through a plan of educating congressmen to the demands of the building and loans. For this reason he is appointing representatives from every county to see their congressmen in behalf of the building and loans. From the second district he appointed Judge H. L. Smith from Greene County; O. A. Faye from Clark County; B. L. Fry, from Warren County; S. Rufus Jones from Montgomery County; C. J. Parrish from Butler County and L. D. Lesh from Preble County.

BELIEVES EUROPE IS NOW ON VERGE OF CATASTROPHE

New York, Nov. 28.—"Make no mistake, the next war in Europe comes on space. If there are any of you who wish to stop it, now is the time; six months from now it may be too late."

That was the warning issued by Oscar Garrison Villard, editor of The Nation, in his first public utterance since his return from Europe, at a dinner given in his honor by a committee headed by Amos R. E. Pinchot.

"Conditions are far worse than I believed possible," he said. "Europe trembles on the verge of a catastrophe that will stagger humanity. Never in 27 years of journalistic experience had I seen such horrific conditions before."

The one way out, he said, is to organize the moral forces in the world. He proposes that this be done: By giving immediate aid to the starving Germans; by demanding a general economic conference, with or without France, and by immediate revision of the Versailles treaty.

"I believe the French militarism of today is far more dangerous than the German militarism of 1914," he declared. "Because it is far cleverer and far more ambitious. The Germans were credited with the desire to dominate middle Europe. Well, the French have achieved the Germans' ambition. Rumania, Jugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Poland and the Baltic states are their vassals."

"There is every evidence that the neutral nations immediately adjacent to Germany would jump at the chance to participate in a general economic conference. They wait upon nothing but brave and outspoken leadership." He referred to the Ruhr invasion as the "worst crime in European history."

DANGER AHEAD

Chapter 25

Lee took the telegram from Jim and read it quickly.

"Leaving 9:00 A. M. train from New York. Bringing Dale with me. Meet us at station. Will remain three days. —Cynthia."

The yellow paper fluttered to the floor.

"Well, I'll be cow kicked!" he exclaimed running his long fingers through his thick blond hair and grinning helplessly.

"Read that!" he demanded, picking up the telegram and pushing it under Jim's nose. "Read it! It's from Miss Elliott. You remember her—she was up here with a party of us. She's coming—coming today!" he added, consulting his wrist watch nervously.

"There will be two of them. A—a Mr. Hoff is coming also. You'll have to chaperon us, old man. Gosh! Cynthia doesn't care what she does. This is going to be fun," he declared, but his expression told plainly that he was afraid the affair might prove difficult rather than jolly.

"Guess we'll have to do some house cleaning, and git that back room ready," Jim suggested, staring at the telegram.

"Yes—I'll help you," Lee returned.

"It's too late now to stop her. She's half wy here by this time. But we'll have to hustle if I'm going to meet 'em' at the station.

Again Lee ran his fingers through his hair, and stood staring helplessly into space. Instead of locking out the devil, and running away from trouble, he was getting deeper and deeper into the midst of it.

He wanted to see Cynthia. He had quite made up his mind that he wanted to go back and let her play flirtingly with his heart again. But Cynthia coming to him was an entirely different proposition. He didn't like the idea of it. Why was she coming?

Would she see Hope? Would he be able to keep them apart?

There was no way out of it. Whatever might happen could not now be averted. He jerked off his brown tweed jacket and threw with helpless determination himself into the task of helping Jim clean up. The cabin had to be fixed up, and that was all there was to it. As for himself, he was not looking forward to a restful time by any means.

And Cynthia was bringing Dale Hoff with her. That was another complication. Lee had always been more or less jealous of Hoff. He grabbed up a broom and kicked a chair out of the way.

"What's the sense of cleaning this place all up!" he called to Jim, "I like it better dirty, anyway."

Jim appeared in the doorway holding an armful of red blankets.

"Guess you'd better help me shake these out, 'n hang 'em in the sunshin," he suggested. "We can't do much sweepin' Haven't time."

Lee threw the broom fiercely in the corner, and took some of the blankets from Jim's arms. "Suits me. Cynthia'll have to stand a little dust around—or clean it up herself."

They took the blankets and shook them over the porch railing, then spread them out in the warm sunlight. It seemed to Lee, as he stood shaking one bright red blanket back and forth frantically, that it was like waving a red flag at a bull. There was something ominous about it. He felt instinctively that trouble was brewing.

He thought of the letter which he had written to the company saying he would be home Friday. Well he wished mightily that he was out of it all, and back again in his office, with only the reasonable strain of business worries to bother him. Those troubles didn't seem like anything to him now as he thought of them.

Jim picked up one of the blankets and spread it across the railing. "You ain't going back tonight then, are you?" he asked bending over and smoothing the blanket with his big rough hand.

"No! Of course I can't go now," Lee answered impatiently.

"I was just thinking about the business, 'n wonderin' how you'd manage." Jim suggested slyly, as he turned his face away and leaned still further over one of the blankets and smoothed it out carefully with both hands.

"If you take so gosh darn long with these blankets I'll never even get as far as the station," Lee flung back at him. He turned and strode back into the cabin and the twinkle in old Jim's eyes broke into a broad grin.

TOMORROW—Cynthia Arrives.

PATRIOTIC PROGRAM GIVEN BY D. A. R. AT HIGH SCHOOL TUESDAY; GIVE FLAG HISTORY

One of the most impressive services held in the new Central High School auditorium since its opening, was held under the auspices of the Catherine Greene Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, Tuesday afternoon.

Members of the society, and the student body and faculty of the Senior and Junior High Schools witnessed the presentation of a facsimile of the Mayflower compact, and an American flag to the High School on behalf of the society, and an interesting flag display, by visiting dignitaries.

Miss Sarah Bell Williams, regent of Catherine Greene Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, presided over the program, which opened by the singing of "America" by the assemblage.

The Rev. A. L. Reynolds, of this city, delivered the opening prayer, and pronounced the benediction. Miss Williams introduced Miss Emma King, D. A. R. member, and only member of the Ohio Society of Mayflower Descendants in Greene County, who in an interesting manner presented two facsimiles of the Mayflower compact, signed by the Puritan forefathers in the cabin of the Mayflower on its maiden voyage to the New World, one of which will be presented to Central High School, and the other to East High School. Mr. Waltz will present the latter copy, on behalf of the Society of Mayflower Descendants, Wednesday.

Miss King gave a resume of the perils of the Pilgrims, and described the signing of the Mayflower compact by the 41 voyagers, in 1620, in the Mayflower cabin. The wording of the compact was read by Miss King, before her presentation of the framed document.

Harper C. Pendry, principal of Central High School accepted the gift from Miss King, and in his response declared that "Just so long as a nation reveres the memory of its founders, and their fortitudes, so modern dangers will be without effect." He expressed the gratitude of the schools in receiving the rare gift, and said that one of the aims of the High Schools was to reverse the memory of the founders of early Americanism. He praised the D. A. R. and Mayflower Descendant Societies for their work in holding to the true aims of the first Americans.

Miss Minor W. Monroe, chairman of the D. A. R. flag committee, presented to the pupils of the Central Senior and Junior High Schools, a handsome American flag. She congratulated the school on its present-day opportunities, and said that the schools of today are laying the foundation for the country's future greatness. "The American flag signifies more to the world than any other standard," she said, "and shows that aim of America, to give individual liberty."

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

When Back Hurts Flush You Kidneys as You Clean Your Bowels.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble. By all means have your physician examining your kidneys at least twice a year.

girls, who carried the banners on the stage. He began with the first flag of England's history, bearing the Cross of St. George. The combination of the Cross of St. George and that of St. Andrew, in 1608 was shown. The speaker told of the dissolution of the union of England and Scotland, and how in 1607 England, Scotland and Wales united, under what was known as "Cromwell's flag" bearing the two crosses in the quarter, in a red field. The action of the colonies in 1775, to show their distinction from the mother country, was illustrated by the pine tree flag, with the green tree in the white quarter, with a red field. The Massachusetts colony adopted the green tree in the white field.

Mr. Sanders described the various colony flags, and presented the Rattlesnake emblem, of John Paul Jones' fame. The first distinctive emblem of the American colonies, in 1776, bearing the thirteen stripes and with the St. George and St. Andrew crosses was shown. The thirteen stars on a blue field, with the red and white stripes, made by Betsy Ross, in 1777, "a growth rather than a creation" was the next flag shown. The flag was changed to one bearing fifteen stars and stripes, which was the national emblem for 15 years, and during the time that Frances Scott Key, wrote "The Star-Spangled Banner". The flag reverted to the original thirteen stars and stripes, the number of stars growing to the present number of 48, as it is today.

The singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" closed the ceremonies.

Seated on the platform during the program were Mrs. William Magee Wilson, vice president general of the National Society of Daughters of the American Revolution, and former state regent; Miss Sarah Bell Williams, regent of Catherine Greene Chapter; Mrs. Minor W. Monroe, chairman of the D. A. R. flag committee; Miss Emma King, of the D. A. R. and Ohio Society of Mayflower Descendants; C. A. Waltz, superintendent of the Xenia Public Schools; Harper C. Pendry, principal of Central High School, the Rev. A. L. Reynolds, Miss Fannie K.

Haynes, of the High School faculty, and David Doggett, president of the Senior Class.

Mrs. William R. Sanders, accompanied her husband, and Mr. Sparrow, to the meeting, and was a guest of the D. A. R. society. Mrs. J. B. Foraker, widow of the former Ohio governor, and head of the George Washington Memorial, who was to be a guest at the ceremonies, was unable to be present, but was represented by her daughter Mrs. Matthews, of Cincinnati, who with Mrs. Sanders, was entertained at luncheon by the D. A. R. members at the First Reformed Church.

"My experience with your medicine has been wonderful. My stomach and liver trouble of five years standing took a new turn two years ago when I took on an olive green complexion. My stomach and liver trouble has all disappeared." # APPEAL FOR BEST IN DRAMA MADE BY FREDERICK WARDE

From the faded flowers that represent the memories of "fifty years of make-believe," Frederick B. Warde, tragedian and eminent portrayer of Shakespearian roles, fashioned the fabric of a story of stage that delighted a fair-sized audience at the Central High School auditorium Tuesday night.

Into the records of more than half a century's devotion to the footlights, the great player delved to find incidents of the life of a mimic with which he interested and amused his audience or touched them with pathos. From his early efforts as an actor down through the period when he reached the crest of his attainment on the stage, the actor pulled forth dusty cabinets rich in memories, reminiscences and incidents of stage lore.

Born in Oxfordshire, England, the son of a country schoolmaster and a farmer's daughter, he moved to London with his mother at his father's death while he was still of tender age. A chance association with an actor of "artificial dignity" yet rich in experience, led him from the study of law to a small part in a stock company. Seven years later he was a leading man in England and then first met Sir Henry Irving, who was not yet knighted.

He came here on invitation, leaving his wife and two children to be brought over later, and remained to conquer the American stage in the finished presentation of some of the theater's greatest roles. Interestingly he told of John McCullough, of Charlotte Cushman, and of Adelaide Neilson, of whom he recounted many amusing experiences. He also talked interestingly of his association with Edwin Booth, with Lawrence Barrett and Louis James. And also of Douglas Fairbanks, the screen star, whom Mr. Warde introduced to the stage from a high school in Denver at the earnest behest of young Fairbanks and his mother.

That the pronunciation and annunciation of the stage today is not comparable with that of the actors and actresses of the old school, was a criticism of modern drama presented by the speaker.

"When a good play comes along worthy of your patronage, patronize it," said Mr. Warde. "When a bad picture comes along stay away and kill it with the thunder of your silence. The standard of the drama will always be the poetry of Shakespeare. We have all the material in America for great plays, great music, great literature. Some day we will have it. There is more goodness in the world to the square inch than evil. The difference is that we do not hear of the good because they do not violate the law. Let us encourage the best in drama, art, literature. We want the public to be the censors. The future of the drama is in your hands. I leave it there."

Closing, Mr. Warde referred to the fact that several people who had seen him perform in Xenia years ago had come to him on his arrival here Tuesday. "It is a great complement after 40 years to be remembered for the simple performance I gave in the Opera House," he said.

Mr. Warde was introduced to the audience by Miss Jean B. Elwell, following her presentation by Superintendent of Schools C. A. Waltz. She pictured the tragedian, as "the last of the Vikings," in her introductory remarks.

R. Hayes Hamilton, lecturer, who was associated with Mr. Warde while the latter was playing the leading part in the Mission Play at San Gabriel, Calif., was the host at a dinner at the Elks' Club at which Mr. Warde, Miss Elwell and John R. Beacham, business manager of the schools, were guests Tuesday evening.

BUNDY ASSIGNED TO COLUMBUS, O.

War department orders issued last Friday, directed the return of Major General Omar Bundy, from the Philippines, and assigned him to command the Fifth Army Corps area, with headquarters at Columbus, O.

Major General James N. McRae was relieved from command of the Fifty Army Corps area, and will succeed Bundy in the Philippines.

The rules committee's official report cites Section A of the rules, declaring that the competing player must be over 18 years of age, and cites the league action on this rule, declaring that the league reconsidered its action of November, 1922 abolishing the age limit, by bringing up the motion against it, at the March, 1923 meeting, and defeating it.

In forfeiting all games played by the Xenia Club in which the player whose eligibility is contested took part, about 50 games will be affected.

Roy Ary, captain of the Xenia Club, said Tuesday the local club would not contest the action of the rules committee but would abide by the decision. A misunderstanding, due to the changing of the original decision regarding the age limit, led to the use of young Frame throughout the season, he said.

At the original league meeting it was decided to have no age limit, but later at a meeting, at which four of the clubs had no representatives, the question was again brought up and the age limit provision re-instated. Many of the other clubs thought the action was taken illegally and the Xenia club and others ignored the ruling, according to Mr. Ary.

The Xenia Club felt also, it is said, that as the player whose eligibility was questioned as a member of the Xenia Club and entitled to the privileges of membership, that it would be unfair to refuse him permission to participate in League games, but

RULES COMMITTEE FORFEITS GAMES

Alleging that the playing of Phillip Frame as a member of the Xenia Quoit Club in the Miami Valley Quoit League games was in violation of Section A. of the League Rules because he is under 18 years of age, all games in which Frame participated have been declared forfeited by the Rules Committee.

Action of the committee was taken in a meeting held recently and declared in a signed report. The league rules committee consists of F. G. Burdett, Arthur Lewis and M. J. Bebb, the last named, of Xenia.

The rules committee's official report states Section A of the rules, declaring that the competing player must be over 18 years of age, and cites the league action on this rule, declaring that the league reconsidered its action of November, 1922 abolishing the age limit, by bringing up the motion against it, at the March, 1923 meeting, and defeating it.

The Fifty Army corps area, with headquarters at Columbus is composed of the states of Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia, and Kentucky.

INCREASE IN FEES OF TRUCK LICENSES EFFECTIVE JAN. 1

Increase in the fees for motor truck registration and licenses as provided in new law which went into effect July 27, 1923, is shown in the registration forms for vehicles for 1924 received by Elbert L. Babb, of the Babb hardware store, Xenia, registrar.

A sliding scale which raises in fees with the weight of the truck provides for practically a 100 per cent increase in the case of licensees for trucks the forms show. Trucks not over 25 horsepower will be charged a flat rate of $8 and a weight fee of 20 cents a hundred gross, including vehicle and load; trucks over 25 horse power and not over 30 horsepower, will pay a flat rate of $12 and a weight fee of 30 cents a hundred gross, vehicle and load; trucks with horsepower over 30 will be charged a flat rate of $20 with a weight fee of 80 cents a hundred gross, vehicle and load.

Trailers of 2,000 capacity and under will pay 20 cents per hundred pounds on the weight of the vehicle and estimated load, while trailers of more than one ton capacity will be charged a fee of 50 cents for each hundred pounds of gross weight. Automobiles which may be converted into trucks will be charged for as if they were trucks. In case of a dispute as to the weight of an automobile, the owner must have it weighed and present a receipts from the weigher with the application for license.

The fees for various classes of passenger cars are not increased under the new law. The use of 1923 license plates must continue to the end of the year, and 1924 plates will not be permitted to be used until January 1. No extension of time will be granted, however, for obtaining 1924 plates and all auto owners must have the tags by the first of the year.

The law requiring that the application for license forms must be made out in triplicate this year, will necessitate extra book work, and has resulted in Secretary of State Thad H. Brown authorizing an increased fee for the service, but it will also enable local registrars to keep much better records. Two of the forms kept in triplicate will be forwarded at once to the Secretary of State and the other will be kept by the Registrar until April 1, 1925, being reserved on file. Of the two sent to the Secretary of State, one will be immediately returned.

The other will be used to compile complete records from all over the state which will be sent the deputy registrars in each county as soon as received instead of waiting three or four months to dispatch this information, as in the past.

In addition to the triplicate forms, the certificate of registration is attached to the license application, and will be filled out by the deputy registrar for the owner when he obtains his license. In the past, these certificates have come from the Secretary of State's office and have not been available for some time after the tags were issued. Under the new plan, this added protection will be given the auto owner when he obtains his license plates.

Automobile dealers must obtain their license plates on direct application to the Secretary of State's office and should be mailed in. Owners who lose one or both license plates may re-

Mornings I was lame and tired and my back throbbed just as if I had been pounded with a club. My kidneys acted irregularly and caused annoyance. Colds settled on my kidneys and started the trouble. ## ADDRESSES AND NAMING OF COMMITTEES FEATURE CLOSING B. & L. MEETING HERE

Appointment of members of committees from the second district of the Ohio Building Association League to see their congressmen in the interests of proper income tax legislation at the close of the final address by James A. Devine, Columbus, secretary of the state association, brought to a close the all-day meeting of the second district of the Association here Tuesday the first ever held in Greene County.

Members during the afternoon session listened to addresses by Congressman Roy G. Fitzgerald of the Third Ohio District, Dayton, on the value of co-operation, to L. T. Palmer, Middleton, ex-president of the Ohio Real Estate Board on "Present Day Appraisements," E. M. Baugher, Newark, vice-president of the Ohio Building Association League on "the value of advertising and to Mr. Devine on the income tax question.

Speaking on "The Duties of a Building and Loan Attorney," Congressman Fitzgerald said the building and loan and savings banks do more to promote stability and the basis of big and little business, than anything else. He referred to the march of progress of building and loans as in keeping with the march of progress in the United States, and declared that development is largely due to the genius of people in the community. He referred to the currency standard of the United States in comparison with the currency conditions in foreign countries, reviewing the history of money in this country.

"We don't appreciate the stability of the United States," he said, "which is based on honesty and integrity. The moral degradation of Europe is frightful because it has destroyed every incentive to save or be thrifty. If you were earning money in one of those countries, would you put it in a savings bank? People who have put in savings banks in those countries, the equivalent of a year's work, have had returned to them less than the price of a pair of shoe strings. There is no preaching or precept so powerful as the activities of the building and loan associations in building up homes and stability in our government." Urging co-operation, he said, "you can't have perfect personal liberty without anarchy and you can't live in anarchy until we are all perfect in morals. So long as we are imperfect we have to stick together. The essential part of our progress and civilization is that we do know enough to co-operate. Be always alert to the attacks that are made. Sometimes we do not succeed because we are apathetic and do not get together and combat these things."

L. T. Palmer, speaking on appraisements, said "there is always present in any real estate appraisal reasonable and just grounds for difference in opinion. Every appraisal represents in itself something of a separate problem. The trend of the times is a reckless willingness to assume any obligation that may be advanced. Our watch word should be—steady."

Secretary John Waitman read a letter from Tom L. Pogue, Cincinnati, past president of the state association, expressing his regret at being unable to attend the meeting. E. M. Baugher, Newark, vice-president of the Ohio Building Association League told the delegates that two years ago only five per cent of the associations in the league advertised and that now more than 80 per cent are taking advantage of this means to greater business.

He told members of the success of his institution with the Christmas Money Clubs, which he said were a form of advertising, as they convinced people how easy it is to save and reached the class of people who were not saving any part of their earnings, with the appeal that they could thus save to spend—at Christmas time.

"Preaching in advertising is the greatest mistake you can possibly make, because it has no appeal," said Mr. Baugher. He told the association members that they had to study their problems and use their publicity in the way believed necessary to reach the people not saving. There is a need for teaching thrift," he said. "We are using paid newspaper space, and we believe in it as one of important activities of our publicity department. One of the things accomplished by the publicity department of the state league, has been to increase the number of associations using newspaper space. Two years ago only five per cent were advertising and now more than 80 per cent use newspaper space. We believe we are getting good results from the newspaper space we are using. Study your opportunities for usefulness in your own community."

L. P. McCullough, an official of the Buckeye State Building Association, Columbus, although not on the program, delivered an impromptu talk in which he urged co-operation with the state organization. "If we are to win in this fight we are to have on the internal revenue problem, that change or modification will be brought about through the fight the state organization is putting up. I do not believe the building and loan associations are doing all we can or should do. It is expected of us to take care of the

The meeting closed after members gave a vote of thanks to the officers of the Xenia building and loan associations who had entertained them and to the county commissioners for the use of the assembly room of the Court House for the gathering.

BRINGING UP FATHER

BELIEVES EUROPE
IS NOW ON VERGE OF CATASTROPHE

New York, Nov. 28.—"Make no mistake, the next war in Europe comes on apace. If there are any of you who wish to stop it, now is the time; six months from now it may too late."

That was the warning issued by Oscar Garrison Villard, editor of The Nation, in his first public utterance since his return from Europe, at a dinner given in his honor by a committee headed by Amos R. E. Pinchot.

"Conditions are far worse than I believed possible," he said. "Europe trembles on the verge of a catastrophe that will stagger humanity. Never in 27 years of journalistic experience had I seen such horrifying conditions before."

The one way out, he said, is to organize the moral forces in the world. He proposes that this be done: By giving immediate aid to the starving Germans; by demanding a general economic conference, with or without France, and by immediate revision of the Versailles treaty.

"I believe the French militarism of today is far more dangerous than the German militarism of 1914," he declared, "because it is far cleverer and far more ambitious. The Germans were credited with the desire to dominate middle Europe. Well, the French have achieved the Germans' ambition. Rumania, Jugo-Slavia, Czecho-Slovakia, Poland and the Baltic states are their vassals."

"There is every evidence that the neutral nations immediately adjacent to Germany would jump at the chance to participate in a general economic conference. They wait upon nothing but brave and outspoken leadership." He referred to the Ruhr invasion as the "worst crime in European history."

Thanksgiving --from within!

The true spirit of Thanksgiving is more than a matter of sentiment—it is the outward expression of the right mental attitude, a sense of well being and the knowledge that others think well of us.

The opinions of others are the result of their impressions, and these, naturally, are influenced considerably by your personal appearance.

DANGER AHEAD

Chapter 25

Lee took the telegram from Jim and read it quickly.

"Leaving 9:00 A. M. train from New York. Bringing Dale with me. Meet us at station. Will remain three days. —Cynthia."

The yellow paper fluttered to the floor.

"Well, I'll be cow kicked!" he exclaimed, running his long fingers through his thick blond hair and grinning helplessly.

"Read that!" he demanded, picking up the telegram and pushing it under Jim's nose. "Read it! It's from Miss Elliott. You remember her—she was up here with a party of us. She's coming—coming today!" he added, consulting his wrist watch nervously.

"There will be two of them. A—a Mr. Hoff is coming also. You'll have to chaperon us, old man. Gosh! Cynthia doesn't care what she does. This is going to be fun," he declared, but his expression told plainly that he was afraid the affair might prove difficult rather than jolly.

"Guess we'll have to do some house cleaning, and git that back room ready," Jim suggested, staring at the telegram.

"Yes—I'll help you," Lee returned. "It's too late now to stop her. She's halfwy here by this time. But we'll have to hustle if I'm going to meet 'em at the station.

Again Lee ran his fingers through his hair, and stood staring helplessly into space. Instead of looking out the devil, and running away from trouble, he was getting deeper and deeper into the midst of it.

He wanted to see Cynthia. He had quite made up his mind that he wanted to go back and let her play flirtingly with his heart again. But Cynthia coming to him was an entirely different proposition. He didn't like the idea of it. Why was she coming?

Would she see Hope? Would he be able to keep them apart?

There was no way out of it. Whatever might happen could not now be averted. He jerked off his brown tweed jacket and threw with helpless determination himself into the task of helping Jim clean up. The cabin had to be fixed up, and that was all there was to it. As for himself, he was not looking forward to a restful time by any means.

And Cynthia was bringing Dale Hoff with her. That was another complication. Lee had always been more or less jealous of Hoff. He grabbed up a broom and kicked a chair out of the way.

"What's the sense of cleaning this place all up!" he called to Jim. "I like it better dirty, anyway."

Jim appeared in the doorway holding an armful of red blankets.

"Guess you'd better help me shake these out, 'n hang 'em in the sun-shine," he suggested. "We can't do much sweepin' Haven't time."

Lee threw the broom fiercely in the corner, and took some of the blankets from Jim's arms. "Suits me, Cynthia!" he had to stand a little dust around—or clean it up herself."

They took the blankets and shook them over the porch railing, then spread them out in the warm sunlight. It seemed to Lee, as he stood shaking one bright red blanket back and forth frantically, that it was like waving a red flag at a bull. There was something ominous about it. He felt instinctively that trouble was brewing.

He thought of the letter which he had written to the company saying he would be home Friday. Well he wished mightily that he was out of it all, and back again in his office, with only the reasonable strain of business worries to bother him. Those troubles didn't seem like anything to him now as he thought of them.

Jim picked up one of the blankets and spread it across the railing. "You ain't going back tonight then, are you?" he asked bending over and smoothing the blanket with his big rough hand.

"No! Of course I can't go now," Lee answered impatiently.

"I was just thinking about the busness, 'n wonderin' how you'd manage." Jim suggested slyly, as he turned his face away and leaned still further over one of the blankets and smoothed it out carefully with both hands.

"If you take so gosh darn long with these blankets I'll never even get as far as the station," Lee flung back at him. He turned and strode back into the cabin and the twinkle in old Jim's eyes broke into a broad grin.
